Training for the Chief Sanitary Inspectorate

Training for the Chief
Sanitary Inspectorate

On September 8, 2025, experts from the Anti-Terrorist Center of the Internal Security Agency conducted training on anti-terrorism prevention and online threats for employees of the Chief Sanitary Inspectorate (GIS).

The event was attended by GIS management staff, who were introduced to the “4U!” social campaign conducted by Department IX of the Internal Security Agency's Counterterrorism Center, which contains practical recommendations on how to behave in situations of terrorist threats.

The meeting also discussed issues related to cyberterrorism prevention, particularly in the context of threats arising from the use of the Internet and potential areas of risk in everyday work duties.

The training was part of the activities of Department IX CAT ABW aimed at increasing awareness and a culture of protection, as well as building a comprehensive prevention system in public administration.
